MISS HEAD DIES; ONCE LIVED HERE

Famed Girls' School Founder Was Local Judge's Daughter

AGED 75 YEARS

Old Home Here Razed Only Recently; Landmark

Miss Anna Head, former Redwood City girl and founder of the famous East Bay school which bears her name, died Sunday at her home, 2809 Forest avenue, Berkeley. She was 75 years old.

Miss Head was the daughter of the late Superior Judge E. F. Head of this county, who died here in the eighties while serving on the local bench.

The Head home was on Jefferson avenue at Pennsylvania (Railroad) avenue, and the residence was only recently demolished. It was once the showplace of the city.

Born in Brookline, Mass., Miss Head came to California in 1868 with her father. She was graduated from the Oakland High School, studied music in Boston and graduated from the University of California with the class of 1897.

Father Was Blind

While residing in the East Bay, Mr. Head received an appointment from the governor to fill the San Mateo county bench. Judge Head, who was blind, was a personal friend of the governor, and the appointment stirred local political circles, for District Attorney H. N. Nutting was the leading candidate for the position.

Judge Head died in office, and was succeeded by the late Judge E. F. Fitzpatrick.

After leaving here, Miss Head founded the girls' school in Berkeley in 1888. She retired from active direction of the school in 1909.

Since Miss Head's retirement the school has been directed by Miss Mary E. Wilson, but Miss Head remained active in philanthropic and church work.

Promise To Judge Saves Lives of 2

Mrs. Inez M. Carloni, widowed Christmas Day when her husband, Felice, took his life, and a prominent coastside rancher owe their lives today to a promise made by Carloni to Superior Judge Franklin Swart.

Carloni, 46, who killed himself at the Miramar Hotel with a shotgun because of domestic troubles, planned to take his wife and the other man in death with him, Judge Swart revealed today.

He was discouraged from this asserted plan, however, after Judge Swart had a long talk with him, and he left with a promise on his lips that he would not kill the pair.

The rancher was before Judge Swart for contempt of court in going to the home of his wife after he had been ordered to keep away. The judge gave him a three-day sentence "to think things over." This was in the forepart of November.

Carloni was sued for divorce here October 29 for asserted cruelties. The couple married in San Francisco in 1923 and have one son, Elio, 8. In the complaint, the wife averred that Carloni had made threats to kill her.

Judge Swart refused the wife's divorce plea, hoping to straighten out the difficulty. He was still pondering the problem when word came of Carloni's suicide.

Widow's Will is Filed; $9000 Est. Goes to Sisters

The will of Mrs. Eva G. Elford, a widow, of Burlingame, was filed for probate in Redwood City today, disposing of a $9,000 estate. Mrs. Elford died December 18.

John F. Davis, Burlingame attorney, is named as executor.

Mrs. Elford provided that all the personal effects and household furniture in the Burlingame home should go to Mrs. May Thompson of Burlingame, a sister, and she divided the real property at 1224 Edgehill drive, equally between Mrs. Thompson and another sister, Annie E. Bradford of Burlingame.

A half sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Keyt of San Francisco is left $5.

Leon Douglass Family Leaves On Florida Trip

Intending to make experiments in ichthyology and photography at hitherto unexplored depths of the ocean, Leon Douglass, noted inventor of Menlo Park, accompanied by Mrs. Douglass and their two daughters, the Misses Ena and Florence Douglass, were en route today, by steamer, for Miami, Fla. There they will join a party of scientists on board Eldridge R. Johnson's yacht, Caroline, for a cruise of several months in the South Atlantic.

With him Douglass is taking instruments he has developed for under-water photography. In the deepest spots of the Atlantic, east of Porto Rico, experiments will be made by the scientists.

The yacht Caroline, owned by the former president of the Victor Talking Machine Company, of which Douglass was formerly vice president, is equipped with cable more than five miles in length. In the ocean depths this cable will be lowered. Attached to the cable will be specially designed nets to catch forms of the marine life characteristic of various levels.

Douglass has developed two motion picture cameras, one of which he hopes to use for taking views of life at a depth of 1500 feet, while the other is intended for higher levels. The first camera is enclosed in an aluminum ball in order to protect it against the great pressures existing deep in the ocean. The other is mounted in a six-foot inverted periscope.

DIRECTORS ARE NAMED FOR C. OF C.

Six Elected at Annual Dinner In Local Hotel

ROTH SPEAKER

Stanford Controller Warns Against Gov't Costs

Attended by four service clubs, the annual dinner meeting of the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce was held in Hotel Sequoia Wednesday, when six directors for the new year were elected from a list of 12 supplied by the nominating committee, of which J. D. Hedge, Guy Kennedy and J. E. Baughn were the members.

Those elected to serve for two years were J. E. Morrish, Elmore B. Hinman and Carl Stoner. Those who will serve for one year are Carl Beeger, Clifton Woodhams and Kendall Towne.

Holdover directors are Dr. W. B. Langston, retiring president of the chamber, Sam H. Winklebleck and W. O. Tyson.

The directors will meet later to chose a president of the chamber, a secretary-manager and treasurer.

The principal speaker was A. E. Roth, controller of Stanford University and former president of Rotary International, who is a director of the state chamber of commerce. His subject was "The Increases in Taxes and Governmental Costs."

Using a wall chart to illustrate his talk, and referring to published statements of authorities, Roth traced the sharp upward course of state and national expenditures during the period from 1915 to the present. With both the state and the nation facing staggering deficits which are increasing daily, the people must call a halt, he said, or face the consequences.

Roth emphasized throughout his address that the people themselves are to blame, for they have demanded buildings, highways, public works, services, bureaus and a host of other things, most of which are desirable, but the cost has mounted to a total far beyond the ability of dwindling money sources to absorb.

"I paint these blue facts," said Roth, in conclusion, "that you may be thinking of them, and also that you may be urging your legislators to work for governmental savings at the coming session of the legislature—real savings, not merely new forms of taxation to meet the deficit."

The speaker was introduced by Dr. Langston, who presided during the meeting. He also introduced the retiring board of directors, and Howard I. Wood, manager of the chamber, who spoke briefly on the new viewpoint of chambers of commerce.

Presidents and presidents-elect of the service clubs—Kiwanis, Exchange, Lions and Yomecans—were introduced, as was Mayor William J. Dusel.

Community singing was led by Otis M. Carrington, head of vocal music at Sequoia high school. Mr. Carrington also directed a quartet of male voices in several numbers. The members of the quartet were Wilbur Doxsee, Herman Phillips, D. Fred Gatchel and Carrington.

Fair Oaks Resident Held in Non-Support

Alfred E. Gillespie, 45, laborer, of North Fair Oaks, was taken to Los Angeles last week by Southern California authorities to face a charge of non-support.

Gillespie was taken into custody by Deputy Sheriffs Belton Rhodes and John T. Simpkin in the office of the district attorney as he prepared to fill out a complaint alleging non-payment of wages.

CAPUCHINO GOLF CLUB LOSES SUIT

Judge Buck Refuses To Set Aside Conveyances

FINDINGS FILED

Bush Finnell Cleared Of Directors' Charges

Directors of the Capuchino Golf Club lost their suit today against Bush Finnell, former president, and others, in their efforts to set aside certain conveyances by which they lost the corporation's holdings.

The Central Construction Company also lost the action to collect $39,493 assertedly due from the golf corporation and others.

Superior Judge George H. Buck gave judgments for the defendants in each instance, thus providing that the plaintiffs "take nothing," and assessed costs of the actions against them.

Directors headed by William A. Lange in their original complaint filed February 19, this year, asserted that Finnell had dominated the board of directors and that the golf corporation had been defrauded out of real property worth $407,000 for $33,000.

Judge Buck ruled that the charge of fraud was not supported by the evidence.

In the Central Construction Company's suit, the judge said that the issuance of certain stock by the golf corporation was illegal and has no legal force or affect and as a result none of the stockholders can be held liable to the plaintiff.

Plaintiffs beside Lange were H. A. Willard, K. A. Timmons, H. G. Stevenson, Dr. St. D. G. Walters, J. B. Rogers, Frank T. English, executor of the estate of John B. Leighton, all of whom were directors of the golf corporation.

Defendants were the Sansbury Contracting Company, Charles Stansbury, E. A. Hartman, K. A. Miller, Capuchino Golf Corporation, Bush Finnell, George T. Dunlap, and John McLaren, the latter trio also being directors.

The club, on June 1, 1926, exercised its option to buy some land of the Capuchino Land Company and paid $315,000 for the holdings. The corporation paid $60,000 down, and delivered its promissory note to the land company for $255,000.

On June 1, 1928, the corporation became indebted to the Stansbury Construction Company for improvements, and the company was entitled to a mechanics lien, according to the findings. The golf corporation executed three promissory notes for $25,000 each, and one for $27,628.

Sometime prior to December 2, 1929, the construction firm assigned all its interests to Hartman. On April 24, 1930, Hartman bought the holdings at public auction for $90,000.

After this sale, the court finds that there is still owing to Hartman the sum of $96,192, and he is authorized by the court to collect all he can from the golf corporation.

Judge Buck rules that the golf corporation has no right, title or interest whatsoever in the land, and has no cause of action against its former president, Finnell, or any of the other defendants.

In the construction company's suit, the Stansbury Contracting Company, Capuchino Golf Corporation, Laura Finnell, C. Sumner James, K. A. Timmons, George T. Dunlap and four others, are defendants.

DECREE MADE FINAL

Mrs. Ruby New today was granted a final decree of divorce from Orman New, and custody of their three minor children, Kenneth, 6; Norma, 4, and Stanley, 2. The decree was signed by Superior Judge George H. Buck on the ground of cruelty.

Jennie Crocker's Ex-Mate Leaps to Death In N. Y.

Malcolm Whitman, former husband of Mrs. Jennie Crocker Henderson, who is now the wife of Robert B. Henderson, president of the Pacific Portland Cement Company, committed suicide in New York Wednesday by leaping from the roof of an 11-story building.

He also left a daughter in Burlingame, the United Press reported.

Whitman was a former amateur tennis champion and was a member of the original Davis cup team in 1900.

Jennie Crocker, San Francisco heiress, was Whitman's second wife. She divorced him and was married to Henderson, who lives in Hillsborough, in 1926.

The marriage of Whitman and Miss Crocker in 1915 was an important society event.

Whitman's first wife was Janet McCook, who died in 1909. Two children by that marriage were Malcolm Whitman Jr. and Jeanetta, now Mrs. Douglas B. Lewis, of Burlingame.

His body fell to the yard at the rear of the building. He had been ill for some time with a nervous ailment and had been under the care of Dr. Menas Gregory, psychiatrist, the United Press reported.

Newest City Is Formed by County Board

Bayshore Returns Are Canvassed By Supervisors

Canvass of returns by the board of supervisors today showed the Town of Bayshore was incorporated by a vote of 142 "yes" and 86 "no," and a resolution was adopted declaring the 13th San Mateo county city formed.

The resolution was presented by Attorney Albert Mansfield, who is among those backing a new dog track for the little Northern San Mateo county city.

Mansfield said the legislature has nothing to do with the incorporation of the city. It will be ready to function as soon as County Clerk Elmore B. Hinman receives a certified copy of the vote transmitted by the board to Secretary of State Frank Jordan showing that it has been filed in Sacramento.

J. E. Morrish, local banker, appeared to request permission to make certain improvements in the plumbing at the old county jail here, which is to be used for families dispossessed of their homes until they find other quarters.

Permission was granted and the board voted the $40 necessary.

Chairman Manuel Francis and Auditor Edward Stack spent a portion of the morning affixing their signatures to the $112,000 block of the $350,000 bond issue recently sold to a San Francisco bond house.

No Evidence In Hit-Run Case Found

Police Chief C. L. Collins expressed himself as satisfied today that the two San Francisco youths held by him over the night had nothing to do with the hit-run case here early Christmas Day which inflicted serious injuries on Joseph Southward, 17, newsboy.

The youths, Corwin Mulkey, 21, clothing salesman, and Frank Schwaab, 20, unemployed florist, will not go free, however. Collins turned them over to the San Francisco police to face charges of grand theft.

George Weber, Palo Alto police expert, could find no evidence on the youths' car to link it with Southward's accident, Collins said, and the youths have maintained they were not the hit-runners.

The Southward boy, who was struck down while riding a bicycle, and who is at the Mills Memorial Hospital, San Mateo, with a fractured skull, is reported as showing steady improvement by his physician, Dr. Harry Mason.

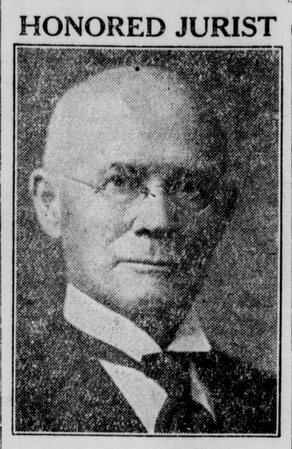
JUDGE BUCK DEEPLY TOUCHED AS BAR PRESENTS MEMORIAL OF ITS ESTEEM

HONORED JURIST



Judge George H. Buck

By WILLIAM VIELHAUER

WITH eyes filled with tears that caused his otherwise brisk step to falter, Superior Judge George H. Buck stepped from the bench at 10:30 a. m. yesterday in what virtually concludes his work as a public servant of San Mateo county. He will officially end his duties next Tuesday.

In his hands he held a beautifully bound and engraved memorial handed to him on behalf of the San Mateo County Bar Association as a memento of the esteem in which the venerable jurist is held.

Col. Charles N. Kirkbride acted as spokesman for the bar, reading the memorial into the minutes of the court, which was approved by order of Superior Judge Franklin Swart, who remarked that it gave the court "great pleasure" to make such an order.

Attorney Hall C. Ross spoke briefly, adding his appreciation to the veteran jurist for many kindnesses shown to the bar and to himself, and recalling that he argued his first case before Judge Buck when just out of Stanford.

Courtroom Is Silent

Judge Buck then responded, his eyes filling with tears and a lump forming in his throat. Speech came with difficulty at first, and then slowly, as if weighing every word carefully, the veteran jurist concluded his appreciation.

Then, with bowed head, the jurist stepped from the bench over the path to his private office—to be alone. The spectators, including many members of the bar, stood in silence as he passed through the door.

Everyone was touched with the unusualness of the proceedings, it being rare in the legal annals of time where a man has served continuously in public office for 50 years.

The memorial, beautifully bound in brown morocco and engraved on parchment in Old English letters with gold and blue illuminated initials, reads, in full:

A MEMORIAL TO HONORABLE GEORGE H. BUCK.

A native of the State of Maine, a resident of the State of California and of San Mateo County for more than half a century, District Attorney from January 8th, 1883, to December 27th, 1890, Superior Court Judge continuously since December 27th, 1890, Judge George H. Buck bears an enviable record for ability as a trial judge, for his knowledge of law and ability to apply same, and for promptness of decision, diligence in official duty and faithfulness to public welfare.

Among his outstanding characteristics are a virile mind, a rich understanding of human nature, sympathy for the unfortunate, uprightness in conduct and fearlessness in action.

The San Mateo County Bar Association compliments Judge Buck on his recognition by the Judicial Council of California for his accomplishment in handling cases, and likewise on his prolonged public service, his career of usefulness and his vigor of body and mind at an advanced age, and wishes him many more years of happiness.

Judge Buck's Response

Judge Buck's response, as noted in shorthand by Will H. Girvin, official court reporter, follows in full:

In response to the remarks of Mr. Kirkbride and Mr. Ross, I wish to say that 60 years ago last November I tried my first important case in the Superior Court of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Fifty years ago the first of this month I came to the Court House in Redwood City to fa-

Schaberg to Watch Buck Quit Bench

Fifty years ago there stepped into the old courthouse, since replaced by two new buildings, George H. Buck, the then recently elected district attorney, looking for his quarters. He was met at the entrance by a young man named H. W. Schaberg, then a deputy assessor. They greeted each other, for they had been friends for some time, and the district attorney-elect was shown the office which was to be his quarters for eight years. Schaberg afterwards served as clerk for Buck when he became judge.

Mr. Schaberg will be at the judge's chambers to bid him farewell. During the intervening fifty years both have been friends. Mr. Schaberg is one of the few pioneers left who saw Judge Buck take the oat of office as district attorney, a half century ago.

Today, he will see him retire after a splendid career of service to the people of San Mateo county. Mr. Schaberg will go to the chambers to greet him. Perhaps they will reminisce and look back over that long period of time, recalling happy incidents that occurred during the passing years. They both started out together as young men and became successful.

Coast Surf Victim Yet Unidentified

HALF MOON BAY, Dec. 28.—The body of a man found in an artichoke field along the lonely Coast highway six miles north of here yesterday remained unidentified on a slab at the morgue here today.

Deputy Coroner Manuel Dutra prepared for the inquest which will be held Friday at 1:30 o'clock.

Dr. R. D. Borley's autopsy revealed the cause of the man's death as drowning, and Sheriff James J. McGrath, who is assisting Constable Fred Simmons in the investigation, believes the man lost his life in the surf while unloading liquor near Princeton.

Authorities here discounted a story published by a morning newspaper purporting to quote a member of a rum running ring as identifying the dead man as "Chick" Edwards, who had "signed on" at Vancouver, B. C., for what proved his first and last trip on a rum boat.

Identification also failed to check out with descriptions of Marion Moffatt, sailor from the U. S. S. California, who was hitch hiking toward Centerville to marry Miss Alice Agna, but who has been unreported.

Eugene Maguire, uncle of the girl, failed to identify the body.

Former R. C. Man Suicides in P.A.

PALO ALTO, Dec. 28.—Willam Henry Bosse, unemployed painter about 35 years of age, was found dead under his automobile in a private garage at 1033 Guinda street here this morning, and a note found in his clothing indicated he had taken his own life by inhaling carbon monoxide fumes from the motor.

Bosse formerly lived in Redwood City, and was a native of Auburn, Placer county.

First Cases of These Lawyers In Buck's Court

Among the attorneys of the San Mateo County Bar Association who tried their first case in Judge Buck's court are:

James T. O'Keefe, H. W. Walker, J. J. Bullock, H. C. Ross, Lee T. Ross, Albert Mansfield, Jerome McDonald, Archer Kincaid, Joseph Fitzpatrick, Carl Anderson, Ernest Wilson, F. E. Hoffman, C. N. Kirkbride, Elinor Falvey, Richard Bell, Harold Anderson, Franklin Swart.

James T. O'Keefe has the distinction of having the first case in the new courthouse, opened in 1909, heard before Judge Buck and secured the last order signed by Judge Buck yesterday.

Archer Kincaid had the honor of trying the last suit before Judge Buck retired yesterday morning. Mr. Kincaid was among the first young lawyers of Redwood City to appear in Judge Buck's court shortly after he assumed the bench.

Mother Sues for $51,846 After Loss of Her Son

Death of Ralph Joseph LeClair, Burlingame high school student, of 876 Hensley street, San Bruno, of injuries suffered in a motorcycle collision in San Bruno on May 15, today resulted in the filing of a $51,846 lawsuit by his mother, Mrs. Mary Jean Smith, against Dr. W. J. Caesar, operator of the automobile.

The youth died on July 20, nearly two months after the accident, as a direct result of the injuries, the plaintiff avers. Le Clair was 17.

Kirkbride, Wilson & Brooks of San Mateo filed the plaintiff's suit.

Ed Derry Shows Improvement at Mills Hospital

Improvement in the condition of Ed J. Derry, 161 Henry street, Menlo Park, feed and fuel merchant of that city, was reported today by his attending physician, Dr. Harry Mason.

Derry has a fracture of the left clavicle and fractures of several ribs as the result of injuries suffered here Saturday night when his automobile and one driven by F. J. Campen, Mountain View, collided at Main street and Bayshore boulevard. He is at the Mills Memorial Hospital, San Mateo.

Mrs. Reede Dies At Jack London Est., Glen Ellen

Friends here today learned of the death of Mrs. Mary Matilda Reede, formerly of Redwood City, who passed away yesterday on Jack London's estate at Glen Ellen at the age of 53 years. The funeral will be tomorrow at 2 o'clock, at her late residence near Glen Ellen.

Mrs. Reede made her home with Jack London's sister, and was widely known in Sonoma county. She was a trained nurse by profession. She was the widow of the late John Wesley Reede, and sister of Robert W. Dodd of San Francisco. She was also a life member and past worthy matron of Arizona Chapter, No. 2, Order of Eastern Star, at Tucson.

Mrs. Reede came to Redwood City occasionally to look after property here, and to visit with friends.

Poole Opposed To Centralized Road Purchases

Obstacles in the way of carrying out the 1932-33 grand jury's recommendation soon to be made that all road materials be purchased through the county purchasing agent were seen today by Supervisor John W. Poole of Redwood City.

Supervisor Poole, at an adjourned meeting of the board Saturday, stated the plan will not work out because of too many "hurry up" calls for materials.

The board was told by District Attorney Edmund Scott that there is "nothing wrong" in the writing of insurance by County Purchasing Agent Ernest Werder outside of office hours and if he does not write insurance for the county.

An effort to bunch claims as the grand jury has recommended to cut down on the printing bill was approved by the supervisors.

The purchasing agent was instructed to secure data on legal printing costs in other counties so that the county may know whether it is being charged a fair rate. The existing rate was established by the board after a conference with all newspaper representatives.

Both Judges Will Take Oaths Monday

Definite arrangements for both Judge-elect Maxwell McNutt and Superior Judge Franklin Swart to take their oaths of office next Monday were made today by County Clerk Elmore B. Hinman. He will give the oath in his office at 9:30 Monday.

Sportsmanship

There is one trait in the social category that stands out above all else in making this a far better place in which to live—and that is the human trait of sportsmanship. We need not say "good sportsmanship" for the word sportsmanship doesn't need any qualification. Either a thought or an action is sporting or it is not—depending entirely upon itself.

Any sporting act is in true line with the Golden Rule—and when we stop to think of it, if we could just depend upon the Golden Rule to carry each and every one of us through this life, there would be no better place in which to live—there would be no necessity for laws. Of course it might throw a lot of judges, lawyers and police officers out of employment—but we might even sacrifice them if we could string a sign carrying the Golden Rule across the main street of every town—and know that everyone would act in accord with its precept.

What a wonderful thing it would be if the youth of the nation, in its modernistic attitude, could lead us out of the wilderness of turmoil into the true spirit of sportsmanship. Youth today is far ahead of the parents in their youth. We are like the Rip Van Winkles waking up in this present era and wondering at the vast strides that have been made to change the whole condition of our civilization. In our youth there were few "horseless carriages." There were no flying machines. There was no radio. There were no movies or talkies. For centuries there was little of progress but the creation of the steam engine, the steamboat, the sewing machine and the most wonderful of all things then—the telegraph and telephone. Now almost all of these are soon to be superseded by other more modern means of progress. It will not be long before the automobile will be propelled within itself from its own generation of electricity. It will not be long before we will be able to watch the movies and listen to talkies over our own radios in our own homes. It will not be long until we will take off from any point into the air on winged machines. Communication will no doubt be made without wires or plugs, so that each speaker will be his own "hello girl" before many years.

The youth of today is surrounded by the things that were the marvelous predictions of so-called fools not much more than a score of years ago. In almost everything have we progressed except in the attitude of one citizen toward another—the attitude of one nation toward another—one race toward another. We have delved into the unknown and brought forth marvels—yet in our human relations we have, if anything, gone far back. Perhaps, when we sum the whole matter up, we are nearer the cave era today then we were a century ago.

How, then, are we going to work ourselves out of our present conditions where gangsters, of more or less respectability rule the people? No matter whether it is the gangsterism of the booze ring, where the outsider is "bumped off" by the strong-arm men for "butting in" on their profits—or the elite coterie of prominent citizens who attempt to subdue the newcomer who might interfere with their influence.

Nothing will combat those manifestations of gangsterism but a real independent spirit upon the part of the people. No matter what their status in life, the individual has the right of expression and the right to have a place in the world with or without the consent of gangsters. Rapidly are we getting out of control—as seen by the returns from the last election—and it will not be long until there will be real independence instead of only the independence voiced by the voluble ones on the Fourth of July.

CO. LOSES IN GARBAGE 'SKIRMISH'

District Attorney's Demurrer Lost In Court

San Mateo county lost the preliminary court skirmish Saturday in its efforts to halt the daily dumping of San Francisco's 600 tons of garbage at Bayshore.

Judge R. R. Syer of San Jose, sitting here, denied the motion of District Attorney Edmund Scott to strike certain portions of the city and county of San Francisco's complaint, and overruled the county attorney's demurrer to the complaint.

This places the garbage matter before the courts for a trial of the facts to determine the legality of the Bayshore Sanitary District Board's anti-garbage ordinance.

Problem Old One

Trial early in January is expected, as San Francisco's garbage problem, now 40 or more year's old, is expected to be the subject of further spirited arguments before the San Francisco board.

Walter Dold, assistant San Francisco city attorney, and Sylvester Andriano and William Lowery, representing the Scavengers Protective Union of San Francisco, argued in favor of continuing the dumping of San Francisco's garbage on the Bayshore tidelands.

They presented a strong point when they told the court that San Francisco has been dumping the residue of its garbage, after incineration, at the Bayshore site for many years, but had never met with any objection until recently.

Object to Raw Garbage

Scott explained that the objection was raised to San Francisco's "raw" garbage and not the incinerator product, which was "cooked" garbage and less objectionable.

The district attorney disputed Dold's contention that San Francisco has no place for dumping its garbage by the fill and cover method, expressing a belief that San Francisco merely was trying to do something in this county which it found objectionable to do within the metropolis.

Pending the trial, the temporary injunction granted to San Francisco by Superior Judge Franklin Swart to restrain San Mateo county authorities from arresting the garbage disposers was continued in force by Judge Syer.

Winzler and three other Eagle scouts left today by boat for Los Angeles with all expenses paid for the three-day national session, the theme of which will be the "10-year plan" of the scouting movement.

The Redwood City youth has been active in scouting for more than six years and has 47 merit badges to his credit. He was chosen by his fellow scouts this summer to be mayor of the county scout camp. He is now assistant scoutmaster of troop 143.

Accompanying Winzler are John Linden, Hillsborough; John Hoover and Burress Karmel, both of Burlingame. They will return by steamer Saturday.

Guest in Auto is Plaintiff After Crash Injuries

Damages of $7,586 were asked today by Charles Miller for injuries suffered in an automobile collision at the intersection of Emerson and Coleridge streets, Palo Alto, on May 17.

Miller was a guest in a car which was involved in an accident with one driven by Marita R. Jennings, who is named defendant. He suffered a brain concussion, two fractured ribs, laceration of the right cheek and right hand, abrasions to the back of the head, and other injuries.

Attorney Raymond Perry filed the suit.

Menlo Park

Charles G. Hardy, a prominent merchant of Oakland for many years, passed away last week at his home there at the ripe old ge of 72 years. The deceased was a brother of Dr. Hardy of this city. He is survived by a wife and son.

Mrs. Catherine Lamont, mother of Winnifred Brown, passed away at her home in Denver on December 19. The deceased was well-known in Menlo Park, having spent a year here with her daughter five years ago. Besides Mrs. Brown she is survived by two sons, one living at Denver and the other in Los Angeles. Mrs. Lamont was a kindly woman and made many friends during her stay in Menlo Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Heber V. Tildren entertained 30 friends at a buffet supper last night at their Menlo Park home.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Johnson, their sons, Francis and Fred, and daughter, Ruth, attended a family reunion on Monday at the home of Mrs. S. F. Graves of Cupertino. The occasion was a happy one.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Douglass, accompanied by their pretty daughters, Ena and Florence Douglass, departed during the week for a cruise of several months in the South Atlantic. At Florida the party will meet a number of scientists. All will leave there on the yacht Caroline for the cruise. With him Douglass is taking instruments he has developed for under-water photography. In the deepest spots of the Atlantic, east of Porto Rico, experiments will be made by the scientists.

The yacht Caroline, owned by the former president of the Victor Talking Machine Company, of which Douglass was formerly vice president, is equipped with cable more than five miles in length. In the ocean depths this cable will be lowered. Attached to the cable will be specially designed nets to catch forms of the marine life characteristic of various levels.

Douglass has developed two motion picture cameras, one of which he hopes to use for taking views of life at a depth of 1500 feet, while the other is intended for higher levels. The first camera is enclosed in an aluminum ball in order to protect it against the great pressures existing deep in the ocean. The other is mounted in a six-foot inverted periscope.

There is food in 115 Menlo Park homes this week as a result of the community's generosity. Eighty-five baskets were distributed by Menlo Post, American Legion, and 30 by the Misses Ena and Florence Douglass, daughters of Leon Douglass, the inventor.

Food supplies, not included in baskets, were taken to some other needy residents of the community.

Legal action to collect the delinquent business licenses of two local merchants was ordered Tuesday night by the Menlo Park City Council.

The two firms, one of which owes $25 and the other $20, have refused to pay their licenses, according to the report of Police Chief Frank Love to the council. City Attorney George K. Whitworth was directed to initiate action to collect the amounts due.

Consideration of the issuance of bonds to cover unpaid assessments for the acquirement of property for the extension of Live Oak avenue to University drive was again continued to the next meeting of the council.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lesser was visiting Mr. and Mrs. Joe Silbert during the Christmas week. Mrs. Lesser is a sister of Joe Silbert. Their home is in Marin county.

Mrs. Isabelle Lindquist, prominent in Legion and Red Cross work, sang at the Veterans' Hospital Christmas evening.

Mrs. Charles Coxin spent Christmas in San Francisco with her daughter. Mrs. Coxin is one of the oldest residents of Menlo Park and owning to her advanced age does not often leave her cosy home on Oak Grove avenue.

Edward Derry, the local merchant and capitalist, who was injured in an automobile accident on the Bayshore highway last Saturday, is recovering nicely. He plans to leave Mills Memorial Hospital today and spend the New Year with his family. Derry was badly bruised and incurred a dislocation of his collar bone. He did not suffer a fracture of the skull as was first reported .

Joseph Shaw, owner of the Toyon Motors Company, has sold his business to the Shaw Motor Company of Palo Alto. The place here will be conducted as a repair department.

Woodside

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel C. Jackling held "open house" on Christmas Day and were visited by a large number of their friends from San Francisco and the Peninsula.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gallagher, who have been making their home in New York for the past several months, returned for the holiday season and have re-opened their home here.

A double engagement was announced at the home of Peter Duzanica of Portola on Christmas Day: that of Miss Katherine Duzanica to John Volpiano, and of Miss Anne Duzanica to Andrew Loushin.

Byron D. Ralston suffered a broken leg on Tuesday when he slipped down an embankment while working on the Skyline boulevard. He was taken to Mills Memorial Hospital.

Because of the holiday next Monday, the Woodside Gardeners' Association will hold its regular meeting on the following Monday, January 9.

The Woodside Sunday School held its Christmas entertainment on Wednesday evening at the church. There were songs ond church. There were songs and recitations and a playlet by members of the different classes, Miss Alice Zaepffel and Mr. David Wright were heard in vocal solos and Miss Jean Weed in a violin number. The tree was beautifully decorated and Santa Claus appeared at the opportune moment with gifts for each of the children.

As usual at this season of the year, the nights have been brightened with lighted trees. The one at the Wobber place high on the hillside is most sightly, but the red, green and blue lights are to be seen scattered all through the valley. Those at the F. H. Mighall and the A. B. Swinnerton place are especially beautiful and a thirty-foot-high lighted cross shines over the A. H. Auddiffred home.

The seasonal rainfall in Woodside approximates six inches which is considerable below the normal and much below the need.

FLOOD WILL FIGHT NEAR LAST STAGE

Supreme Court Sets Tuesday to Hear Retrial Plea

On the same day that Superior Judge George H. Buck steps down in favor of his successor, Maxwell McNutt, which is next Tuesday, the state supreme court will hear final arguments in Mrs. Constance May Gavin's efforts to win a daughter's share of the $9,000,000 Flood estate.

The date was fixed by the supreme court yesterday when it received concluding briefs in Mrs. Gavin's attempt to win a new trial—denied her by Judge Buck when he cut her off from a two-fifths share of the fortune by a directed verdict.

Judge-elect McNutt, who succeeds Judge Buck, assisted Attorney John J. Taaffe in the presentation of Mrs. Gavin's case, and was among the grieved parties when the judge's directed verdict was rendered.

On the court's findings next Tuesday will depend a new trial for Mrs. Gavin or closing of the issue, unless she carries her fight to the highest court of the land.

Mrs. Gavin's long drawn out fight to be recognized as a daughter of the late James L. Flood, Menlo Park mining magnate, who died in 1926, ended dramatically in August, 1931, when Judge Buck told the jury to bring in a verdict against her.

The jury, standing 10 to 2 for granting Mrs. Gavin $2,000,000 of the Flood fortune, revolted, but found it had no alternative.

Mrs. Gavin appealed from the court's decision, submitting 16 volumes of typewritten manuscript to help the high court reach its decision.

She claimed to be an illegitimate daughter of Flood and Mrs. Eudora Willette of Oakland.

VITAMINES

It was formerly believed that a diet to be adequate for maintenance of the bodily nutrition need contain no more than the essential principles, viz., proteins, fats, carbohydrates, water, and the inorganic salts. This conclusion has been shown to be erroneous by recent investigation.

There are other materials in addition to the above requisites that are needed—the vitamines. A great many feeding experiments have been made and it has been clearly shown that the diet must contain these accessory food principles or disease will result.

Several different kinds of the vitamines have been found. Vitamine A, called the anti-ophthalmic vitamine, is found in cod-liver oil, butter, cream, egg-yolk, cheese, fresh green vegetables, and tomatoes. Persons deprived of this vitamine develop defects—they fail to grow or they lose weight, and exhibit apathy. Night-blindness among the Eskimos and Japanese coolies is ascribed to lack of this vitamine. It is cured by cod-liver oil.

Vitamine B, known as the anti-neuritic vitamine, is present in the husks of rice, wheat, corn, nuts, yeast, also in green plants, tubers, tomatoes, fruits, meats, and oysters. The absence of this vitamine leads to beri-beri or multiple neuritis, to loss of appetite, impaired growth, and disturbed functioning of the digestive system.

Vitamine C, named the anti-scorbutic vitamine, is found in citrus fruits, vegetables, internal organs of animals, and oysters. The lack of this vitamine leads, as the name might suggest, to scorbutus and kindred ailments.

Vitamine D, the anti-rachitic vitamine, is present in milk, egg-yolk, cod-liver oil, etc. Deficiency of this vitamine causes the disease of children—rickets.

Vitamine E or X, designated as the anti-sterility vitamine, occurs in wheat germ, whole wheat, rolled oats, lettuce, meat, milk, and alfalfa.

This comprises the complete list of the known vitamines according to the literature I posses. Others are being sought; no doubt, others will be found.

It is not difficult to choose a diet that includes all of these vitamines; in fact, I believe it would be more difficult to find a diet in which these vitamines would be missing, under ordinary living conditions. The choice of foods made by the average individual will contain all of the vitamines.

The average dream lasts five seconds.

Drain Project For Atherton 60 Pct. Done

ATHERTON, Dec. 28.—The city council here yesterday was given a report by City Clerk Thomas G. Packham that the Atherton-Menlo Park drainage ditch was about 60 per cent completed in the project of widening and deepening.

The workmen are now clearing the ditch on Middlefield road and will next be working along Marsh road. County unemployed workmen are doing the work with the labor costs being borne by the relief bonds.

Following a reappraisal, which showed the reproduction costs of the Atherton City Hall to be about $6,060, the city council last night was able to secure a reduction of $40 yearly in the present premium. The city had been carrying a policy between $8,000 and $10,000.

What 2,329 Apartment House and Hotel Men say about GAS HEAT applies to your home

HAVE YOU envied friends who live in the comfortable warmth of hotel or apartment where the gas fired furnace delivers heat in plentiful abundance? But this fine wholesome warmth you feel in apartment or hotel is only half the story.

Read these additional reasons why gas heat was chosen by 2329 hotels and apartment houses in Northern and Central California. These reasons apply even more strongly to the home where the husband is doing janitor duty and the housewife does her own housework.

Here is a Statement From a Hotel Manager in San Jose:

"The greatest advantage to me has been the elimination of soot and smoke and all annoyance of noise and general upkeep which we heretofore confronted."

In this statement, as with hundreds of letters received from hotel and apartment house managers, the cleanliness of gas fuel is stressed as of first importance.

Be freed of work within your home by burning a fuel that brings in no dirt and therefore creates none. Consult your local gas heating dealer today or ask a representative of this company about modern gas heating equipment for your home.

R. R. GRADE CROSSING COST FIXED

Separation Estimate $501,424,000, Report

12,099 IN STATE

Elimination of 7,997 Practicable if Financed

The total cost of grade separation structures at all grade crossings in California, where separation of grades is practical, is estimated for steam railroads at $359,184,000, and for electric interurban railroads at $142,240,000, a total of $501,424,000.

The annual cost of such a grade separation program including interest, depreciation and maintenance would be $34,300,000.

These are the figures reached by the California Railroad Commission and the state department of public works after a study of the grade crossing situation made at the direction of the last legislature for presentation at the coming session of that body.

There are now 12,099 grade crossings in California over main and franchise railroads including 6,355 crossings within cities, 5,515 crossings of county highways and 229 crossings on the state highway systems. The report states that it is practical, finances permitting, to separate 7,997 of these crossings. The remaining 4,102 crossings are declared to be impractical for separation, either because of physical conditions, or by reason of the fact that they can be better eliminated by realignment of highways or can be closed because of a lack of public necessity for their use. The report does not deal with street car lines but does include electric interurban lines.

The number of actual grade separations in the state on January 1, 1932, was 578, which were built at an expenditure of approximately $21,000,000.

Five Classes

The crossings capable of separation are divided into five classes, arranged in the order of the apparent desirability of such separation. In classifying these crossings, J. G. Hunter, transportation engineer for the railroad commission, and Stewart Mitchell, representing the department of public works, took a number of factors into consideration, including volume and rate of travel of highway and railroad traffic at these crossings, their accident record, type of track protection provided, and other considerations.

The general situation for each class of crossings is summarized from January 1, 1926 to January 1, 1932:

Class 1: This class includes 464 crossings, constituting 3.84 per cent of the total grade crossings in the state. During the six-year period this class contributed 34.80 per cent of the grade crossing accidents in the state.

Class 2: Number of crossings, 767; percentage of total crossings, 6.34 per cent; accident record 19.73 per cent.

Class 3: Number of crossings, 1,117; percentage of total crossings, 9.23 per cent; accident record, 15.69 per cent.

Class 4: Number of crossings, 2,467; percent of total crossings, 20.39; accident record, 16.61 per cent.

Class 5: Number of crossings, 7,284; percentage of total crossings, 60.20; accident record, 13.17 per cent.

Conclusions Reached

Major conclusions contained in the report are:

"It is apparent that we cannot hope to eliminate all the grade crossings in this state within any reasonable period which we can now forecast. However, records show that the grade crossing situation is being constantly improved, as is evidenced by a decrease in the number of accidents occurring at railroad crossings; notwithstanding the fact that the total number of accidents occurring on public highways is generally increassing.

"It is apparent that the grade crossing problem is one which presents many possibilities of treatment with varied expenditures. In formulating any comprehensive plan of grade crossing improvement, the important object is to effect a plan whereby the public will receive the greatest benefits from the money to be invested. Various surveys show that many of the existing crossings could reasonably be closed for want of sufficient public necessity for their existence to justify the expense necessary to provide for their protection or separation. This is particularly true of crossings of public highways with railroads within cities.

"It is not proper to assume all grade crossings should be eliminated, as there are cases where the enormous expense of such an improvement, particularly in developed business sections, could not be justified by the benefits to be derived."

The report discusses present methods of protection at grade crossings in detail. It points out that the records of the Interstate Commerce Commission show that for Class 1 steam railroads, as of December 1, 1931, approximately 21 per cent of the grade crossings in California were provided with some form of special protection, whereas on the average throughout the United States, 13 per cent were specially protected.

The report estimates that it would cost over $10,000,000 to provide double automatic signals at crossings not now provided with special protection, and that the total annual maintenance cost of these protective devices would be nearly $800,000.

If a second automatic signal were added, where only one is now maintained, the cost of such additional installation would be approximately $900,000 and annual maintenance costs at these crossings would be increased by over $40,000.

The report calls attention to the fact that approximately 64 per cent of the grade crossing accidents in 1931 occurred at unobstructed crossings, and 60 per cent occurred at crossings provided with special protection.

The total installation cost of all classes of protective devices now installed at grade crossings on both steam and electric railroads is given as $2,444,859. The annual maintenance cost of these devices is $657,322.

Distributed 15,000 rotogravures through San Mateo Times, Redwood City Tribune and Burlingame Advance-Star so their readers might mail to their friends interested in California.

More Projects Are Promised In Relief Work

More projects in the Redwood City district under the county relief work program and assignment of more men to projects now under way here will give this district its full quota of jobs within the next few weeks, members of the Redwood City Unemployed Relief Committee were assured at their meeting Wednesday by Sam D. Merk, chairman of the county committee, and Capt. Edward Mocauley, county director of unemployment relief.

The purpose of the meeting was to bring before the county organization the full needs of the Redwood City district and to present a complete report on the local committee's request for a $5000 appropriation with which to carry out a food relief plan during the next five months.

Action on the food relief problem is being held up pending further investigation of reports by the local group, but early assistance in the matter of supplying more county jobs here is anticipated.

Merk stated that the Redwood City district has not received its full quota of assignments because of fewer projects here at present than in other parts of the county. Additional work will be outlined shortly for submission to the board of supervisors for aproval, and until then more men will be assigned to current jobs, Merk said.

The county relief leaders urged more stringent investigation of applications for jobs, citing that the tions here, and new applications during the week totalled 30. There were 53 men placed, and the work amounted to 265 days or 2120 hours, all supplied by the county.

number of registrations in Redwood City is nearly double that of San Mateo or Burlingame.

Lina Basquette is Remarried Tuesday

Lina Basquette, stage and motion picture actress, formerly of San Mateo, was remarried Tuesday to Teddy Hayes, who helped train Jack Dempsey.

The ceremony was performed in Washington, according to the United Press, by Municipal Judge Robert E. Mattingly. The couple was married in New Jersey in 1931, but Hayes' divorce had not become final then and it was decided to repeat the ceremony.

History of SAN MATEO COUNTY

By CHARLES H. PRIOR

ARTICLE VIII
The Early Anglo-Saxons

Spain's dominion over the Californias ceased in the year 1882, when General Santa Ana headed a successful revolt against Inturbide and the Spanish authorities.

Two years later the constitution of Mexico was adopted and the two Californias were constituted one territory. Their combined population was insufficient for them to be admitted as a state in the Mexican republic. They were allowed a representative in the lawmaking body but no voice in its legislation.

The territory of the Californias was governed by a commandante-general, assisted by a council known as the territorial deputation. During the rebellion, Pablo Vicente de Sola was the colonial governor. Following him was Luis Arguello, who later, in December, 1835, received the grant of the Rancho de Las Pulgas which extended from San Mateo to Menlo Park and from the bay to the foothills.

From 1825 on definite steps were taken to break the power of the mission. In 1833 the Decree of Secularization was issued and vigorously enforced. This completely revolutionized the ecclesiastical government of California, led to the overthrow of the authority of the Franciscans, liberated the Indians, and finally resulted in the partition of the mission lands and cattle and the dispersion of the ntives. Two years later the Fathers were ordered banished.

Between this period and the annexation of California by the United States most of the valuable land grants were conferred.

The history of the early 19th century in San Mateo county is so closely allied to that of the rest of the state and the entire Pacific coast, that some mention should be made of the bold voyagers who preceded the early Anglo-Saxons.

Following the earlier ones, Sir Francis Drake and the Spaniard, Viscayno, came a Dane named Vitus Behring, who ws sent by Catherine of Russia to discover a northwest passage between the Pacific and Atlantic oceans. His voyage was successful and on his return he presented his queen with the beautiful furs he had obtained on the cruise.

In 1799 the Russian American Fur Company was organized, and the town of Sitka was founded in 1805. Then came the British, stirred to action by the tales of fabulous riches which the Russians were obtaining from their fur trade. The King George Sound Company was formed in London for the purpose of making settlements on the Pacific coast and ships were sent out. Vessels flying the flag of the United States made the long, hazardous trip around the stormy Horn, and were also seen in western waters.

The American ship, "Columbia," with Robert Gray as captain, arrived at the straits of Juan de Fuca in June, 1791, and traded along the coast, nosing into the Columbia river, which was named after the vessels. In 1810 the Pacific Fur Company of New York was organized by John Jacob Astor, and in 1811 the settlement of Astoria was founded.

But in the following years the British drove the Americans out of the Pacific northwest, and they came south to California. This was the start of the incoming tide of Anglo-Saxons into this region.

Before 1825 Boston and Liverpool trading ships had visited this coast and occasionally some shipweary adventurer went over the side and remained. John Gilroy, a Scotch seaman who was sick with the scurvy, deserted from a ship of the Hudson Bay Company at Monterey and made his way northward, becoming, so far as all accurate record is concerned, the first permnent Anglo-Saxon pioneer of this county.

The next to settle permanently here, and said by many to be the first white man, other than the Spaniards, to make his home in San Mateo county, was William Smith, generally known as "Bill the Sawyer."

He established a primitive sawmill near the present site of Woodside, and was the first to begin the slaughter of the redwoods. The exact time that he arrived on this coast or what induced him to go into the sawmill business is not known. It is said that he came to Astoria on one of the ships of the Pacific Fur Company and arrived in California in 1816. It is definitely known that he was a resident of Spanish Town in San Jose in 1833, that he married a Spanish lady, and that when he moved to Woodside his oldest child was about a year old. He later moved north of the bay and died on a ranch which he owned in what is now Marin county.

(Next week's article will tell of other early settlers.)

Judge Buck

miliarize myself with the duties of the office of District Attorney, which I was to assume on the first Monday of January following.

Forty-two years ago, about this time, I took the oath of Judge of the Superior Court of this County and I have remained in this position ever since.

Gives Bar Credit

Possibly whatever success I may have had, if any, in the transaction of the business of this court has been due largely to the actions and support that I have received from the members of the Bar. And I wish to say to you, gentlemen present this morning, many of you who commenced your practice under me, that I feel proud of you all.

There is not one of you that has ever approached me unethically in anything, in any matter pending before me. In fact, in all of my experience, when they refer to the lawyers taking advantage of their position, I want to say that there has nothing ever happened, while I have been connected with the Court of this County, where anything improper was presented to me by any attorney.

Associations Pleasant

It is quite proper that I should say this at this time because many think that the attorneys having a case before the Court approach the Court to discuss the case with him and try to influence the judge in his decision. But there is nothing in that. With one exception I have never even received communications from parties having cases in this court. They always have submitted their matters upon the evidence presented and upon the law to the Court for decision.

And I want to say that my associations with the officers of this County for 55 years has been pleasant. You hear some people talk about "the Court House ring." But if there ever has been a "Court House ring" I do not know of it. We meet here sociably, and my relations with the public officials of this county have been most fortunate. I have not a word of fault to find with any of them or any of the attorneys.

Recalls Early Case

I well remember Mr. Ross' first argument on a demurrer in my Court, the first time he ever appeared in any Court, and I remember also that when he got through with his argument I complimented him upon the way he managed his case. And I will say that all of these younger attorneys who commenced their practice in this Court have done well.

I certainly appreciate this little memento that you have handed me this morning, not for its value, but for the spirit in which it has been tendered to me.

Appreciates Memento

The Bar wanted to present a banquet which I did not want, nor did I ask for this, but the Bar wanted to do it and tendered it to me, and I appreciate the fact that it was proffered and I am here for that purpose only, as I do not call the calendar today, for the reason that some matters might come up that would require mature deliberation and a longer time than I have to give to it, for I shall remain in office only for the remainder of the week. And Judge Swart has kindly consented to call the calendar for this day.

I want to return to you, one and all, my kind thanks for the manner in which you have treated me since I have been here. And I also wish to return my thanks to the Judicial Council of this State for the references that they have made to me in the records at Sacramento where they will remain for all time.

Will Take Rest

To newspapermen later, Judge Buck said that he intends to rest, after which he may write his memoirs or travel.

"I have worked hard for 80 years," he said, "and my immediate plans are for a rest." The jurist, nearing 85, explained that he went to work as a mere boy on a Maine ranch, and never has let up since that time.

Mrs. Elizabeth Buck, his wife, was in the courtroom to witness the rare spectacle.

Boys Held In Burglary Try At R.C. Store

Two 13-year-old Redwood City schoolboys were booked at the juvenile detention home this week to face charges of attempted burglary of Bob Murphy's men's furnishing shop at 2639 Broadway.

The boys jimmied a lock out of the rear door of the establishment, but found they could not get in that way. They then broke a window in the rear, but were frightened away before they gained an entrance to the store.

Officer E. G. Fogarty discovered the attempted entry, and the boys were traced by the police. They are reported to have confessed.

Crash Victim Given $2500 By Jury Here

Clarence Page, 20, of Menlo Park, whose nose was fractured and whose upper jaw was broken in an automobile collision in that city June 19, last week won a judgment from a jury here in the sum of $2500.

His father, Edward Page, also has a judgment, the jury giving him $350 for expenses he incurred. They sued for $10,257.

The jury, sitting in Superior Judge Franklin Swart's court, granted the damages against James O'Brien, driver of the second car.

Man Found Lying In Local Creek Rescued

Thomas Sullivan, 42, Southern Pacific section boss, living in Oakland, was rescued from almost certain drowning in Redwood Creek at the foot of Main street here Wednesday afternoon after he had wandered into the creek bed in a stupor after consuming a quantity of liquor.

Beside him lay a bottle of whiskey, three quarters full.

A rising tide circled the body, and Sullivan would have drowned had he not been awakened by Officer E. G. Fogarty, who saw his plight.

Sullivan was booked at the county jail for intoxication and for possession of a bottle of liquor under a city ordinance.

M'Nutt Will Take Oath On Monday

Maxwell McNutt, judge-elect of Department 1 of the superior court of San Mateo county, insists on taking the oath of office next Monday—although it is a legal holiday.

McNutt stated today that he intends to take no chances in qualifying for the post to which he was elected November 8 over the opposition of Superior Judge George H. Buck.

The jurist-elect says the law reads that he is to take the oath the first Monday after the first day of January—which is next Monday and which happens to be a holiday this year.

County Clerk Elmore B. Hinman agreed today to come to the courthouse Monday and open the doors especially for the purpose of swearing in the new jurist.

Superior Judge Franklin Swart, who was re-elected, must also take the oath this year, and presumably will take it at the same time.

$60,000 Real Estate Transaction in S. M.

SAN MATEO, Dec. 27.—Both corners at the Baywood Park entrance on Third avenue had been acquired today by Harry Regan, Hillsborough capitalist, with the filing of the deeds with County Recorder T. C. Rice in Redwood City.

According to Lester G. Loupe, who conducted the negotiations, Regan purchased the property for the reported sum of $60,000. In the deal he acquires the corner with 130 feet of frontage on El Camino Real by 90 feet on Third avenue, where the Baywood tract office was located. He also acquired the opposite corner with 87 feet of frontage on the highway and 127 feet on the boulevard.

Both are zoned for second residential development, which will allow the erection of apartments, hospitals or other buildings of this character.
